REWARDED A FRIEND.

Governor of Missouri Remembers the Man Who Once Saved His Life.

"I have appointed Jerome S. Barman coal oil inspector of Springfield for a term of two years," was the simple announcement made by Gov. Stephens, of Missouri, a few days since to a number of newspaper reporters. Back of this, however, is a story.

The new inspector of the "Queen City of the Ozarks" saved the governor's life once and is now rewarded by appointment to a good office. It was 25 years ago, and the future governor and Barman were boys in the quiet, staid old town of Booneville, Mo. They were like other boys the world over, and one warm afternoon in June they played "hooky" and went to bathe in the cool waters of a deep creek that flowed into the Missouri river back of the Kemper school. Stephens couldn't "swim a lick," and venturing into the water over his head was in a fair way to drown, when young Barman swam to his rescue. After much difficulty he got his unconscious burden to shore and revived him.

Following the usual course of human events, the ways of the two boys diverged. One prospered in business and politics, the other became a citizen of Springfield, where he, too, was fairly prosperous. When the time came that there was a vacancy in the office to which he was recently appointed, Barman applied for it, and the governor without hesitation gave it to him.

It is the only thing that he has ever asked at my hands," said the governor, "and he is in every way worthy of it."

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN RUSSIA.
Their Relations Marked by Every Evidence of Mutual Controversy.

"This is a curious custom you Americans have of referring to your wives by their husbands' names," observed Glanvock Kaplon, an intelligent Russian traveler, says the St. Louis Republic. "I suppose the American holds his wife in as high esteem as the Russian holds his, but if at home I should speak of my better half as Mrs. Kaplon my friends would at once conclude that my domestic relations were not as pleasant as they should be, and that I was thinking of a legal separation. When I first heard an American speak of his wife as Mrs. Jones, for example, I felt almost like presuming on my acquaintance by intruding into his private affairs and asking him what the trouble was at home. Yet I soon learned that the custom was universal over here, but still I cannot get used to it. 'My wife' is the plain, blunt way I speak in Russia of the lady who, I suppose, I would have to call Mrs. Kaplon in polite society in America. In some of the more fashionable circles of St. Petersburg this American social custom has been adopted, though I was told by a prominent government official not long ago that the czar disapproved of it."

Makes Queen Shed Tears.
According to an "absolutely unimpeachable authority," a writer in the Westminster Gazette relates how the Irish song: "The Wearing of the Green" was recently sung in Windsor castle. The queen, it appears, requested a young Irish lady who was visiting the castle to sing an Irish song. She went to the piano and sang "The Wearing of the Green" and, according to the story told, her majesty was touched by the pathos of the song and burst into tears. The writer continues: "Ah!" said my eminent informant, "you little know the depth of the queen's sympathy for the Irish and the tenderness of her heart."

Nice Girls.
Of Matthew Arnold as a school-examiner the author of "Pages from a Private Diary" has this to say: "Arnold's reports are very good reading, but his methods of examination were sometimes highly poetical. I remember a tale told by a fellow-inspector of a class of girl-pupil teachers that he asked Arnold to examine for him. Arnold gave them all the 'excellent' mark. 'But,' said the other inspector, 'surely they are not all as good as they can be; some must be better than others.' 'Perhaps that is so,' replied Arnold, 'but then, you see, they are all such very nice girls.'"

Snake.
Live pine snakes are worth 15 cents a foot at Whittiers. The snakes are caught among the pines, and are large but harmless, frequently reaching six and seven feet in length, beautifully marked, and thought by some to resemble a rattlesnake in general appearance. They are shipped to a Brown's Mills man, who acts as agent, and he, in turn, sends them to the city. He pays according to the length of the snake, 15 cents a foot. The "piners" complain that the snake season is backward this year because of the cold weather. What the live snakes are used for the Brown's Mills agent refuses to tell.—Philadelphia Ledger.

SAID ABOUT DAINTINESS.
Dainty food is a good present.—Elik. A dainty stomach begs for the purse.—Cydias. Eat and drink with thy friend; yea, partake of his choice dainties; but beware of buying or selling to him.—Confucius.

WEAKNESS OF MEN

A Padlocked Heart.

How many women lock their troubles and sufferings in their own hearts and silently endure misery and pain which would cause strong men to cry out in agony.

The sufferings of women are more than half unknown and unappreciated. The refined sensitiveness of their organism lays them liable to coarser nature can never experience or comprehend.

The least derangement or disorder of the delicate special organism of their sex overwhelms the whole physical and mental being with weakness and wretchedness. But it is a mistake to suffer these troubles in silence. They may be cured in the perfect privacy of home, without the repugnant ordeal of examinations and "local treatment," which the family doctor is sure to insist upon.

No physician in the world has had a wider or more successful experience in the treatment of woman's diseases than Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. His "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most obstinate and complicated feminine difficulties. It is the only medicine of its kind prepared by an educated, skilled physician.

Mr. J. F. Speed, of Omen, Texas, writes: "My wife was badly afflicted with female weakness. We tried three of the best physicians in the country without benefit, but at great expense. My wife grew worse, and we gave up in despair. She could not get in and out of doors without pain. She was not able to stand on her feet long at a time, complained of dragging down pains in abdomen. Nothing but an untimely death seemed awaiting her, when—happy thought—the name of Dr. Pierce came to my mind. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for his advice, followed it, my wife improved perceptibly from the first two weeks' treatment, continued the treatment six months, and pronounced the cure complete, at a cost of less than one month's treatment by the last physician we employed before consulting Dr. Pierce. She used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the lotions recommended by him. It has been two years since, and the good effect is permanent."

R. Katz Agent.A DELIGHT TO THE GOLD
POWER

The Salt Lake Tribune, edited by C. C. Goodwin, remained with the Republican party until Mr. Hanna, as agent of the trusts, assumed full control of the party and shaped its policy. Now it sees the effect of that policy and it is for Bryan, the people and the monetization of silver, and consequently against the Republican party. Commenting upon the closing of the Park City mines, as a result of the financial policy of the gold party, it says:

"It doubtless will be a great delight to the gold power to learn that two Park City, Utah, mines giving employment to 700 miners, and on which 3,000 people have for years been dependent for a livelihood, have been forced to close down. They ought to send to Princeton or to Buzzard's Bay and bring in the great intellect that carried out their views so beautifully four years ago, whose work is now bearing perfect fruit, and give him a banquet. The invited guests should be Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Bayard, Secretary Sherman, Senator Hanna, Mr. Pierpont Morgan, Secretary Gage, Speaker Reed and others of the same class of patriots, not omitting the editors of the gold papers. There should be mutual congratulations over their achievement of breaking down the most important industry of the nation, and the one on which production leans for profits. Their joy over the fact that the chains of serfdom seem to be at last securely fastened on the necks of the producing world ought to be very great. It is a serious matter out here. It goes to the homes and lives of men; it breaks hopes and hearts and the destruction has but just begun. The question in 10,000 hearts is, why is it a penitentiary offense to crack a safe, or fire a house, or hold up a stage when the great press of the country is filled with exultation and rejoicing over the destruction of an industry upon which the hopes of the world hang more than upon any other."

Here in Nevada there are three or four papers, which receive the greater part of their support from corporations, that approve the policy of the gold party and rejoice over the success in closing the silver mines of the State. They publish a report that Senator Stewart had abandoned the cause of silver and exultingly announced it as proof that his senses were being restored. They contend that it is an evidence of insanity for the people, and the representatives of the people, of Nevada to battle for the restoration of silver to its historic place as a money metal. They know, unless they are incapable of reasoning that the policy of the gold trust is closing the silver mines of the country and throwing thousands out of employment and they rejoice that such is the case. For a share of the Hanna sack and the crumbs which they receive from the corporations, they do all in their power, which fortunately is not much, to kill a great industry of the country and one as the Tribune says, upon which the hopes of the world depend more than upon any other.

ITALY VINDICATED.

The days of chivalry and the spirit that pervaded them are not entirely things of the past as a recent encounter between the scions of two royal families will testify. The gentlemen in question are Prince Henri of Orleans, grand son of Louis Philippe, the quondam citizen king of the French, and the Count of Turin, the nephew of Italy's ruling monarch. The trouble grew out of some assertions made by the Frenchman concerning the action of certain officers in the recent campaign against Meneleck, the Abyssinian Napoleon. Prince Henri had just returned from an exploring expedition in that country and in writing of his travels mentioned some particulars that reflected seriously on the courage of the Italian officers. This was too much for a prince of the royal blood to stand and a challenge was forthwith sent to avenge the wrongs of Italy. The duel was secretly arranged by the seconds and came off last Sunday at sunrise. The men were evenly matched, but, after twenty-six minutes of hard and fast fighting, the Count of Turin was adjudged the victor, he having wounded his adversary in the shoulder and in the right side of the abdomen. This affair has caused the greatest excitement in both countries. In France, because Prince Henri is a pretender to the French throne and by the semi-theatrical effect of this encounter has endeared himself to the royalist faction and ingratiated himself into the good will of a populace, so easily caught by display and brilliancy; in Italy, because their champion had come off victorious in an "affaire d'honneur" and successfully vindicated the good name of Italy and the Italian army.

The New York Sun says that thirty-two years after the end of the Civil War the number of pensioners on account of that war exceeds by about 250,000 the number of soldiers actually engaged in the service in all the armies of the Government at any time between the firing upon Sumter and the surrender of Lee at Appomattox. The Sun declares that the amount paid for pensions in July, 1897, was $14,958,000, or nearly $2,000,000 more than in July, 1896. The pension payments this year are expected to reach the enormous and unprecedented sum of $150,000,000.

A dispatch from Hammerfest, Norway, says that one of the crew of the sailing vessel Aikens, about July 22d, shot a pigeon on the north coast of Lapland bearing the following message: "Eighty-two degrees passed; good journey northward. Andice." The message bore no date.

The German Colonization Association of California has made arrangements for colonizing 10,000 acres of beet sugar lands in the Salinas Valley. Claus Spreckles, who represents the sugar factories at Salinas and Marysville, entered into a contract to buy the beets produced at $4 per ton.

The Secretary of State and the French Ambassador are negotiating a reciprocity treaty under the authority conferred by section 3 of the Tariff Act. It is expected that a satisfactory agreement will be reached.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Three young men robbed the bank at Pineville, Ark., yesterday. They took all of the currency in the bank, about $900.

A man named Anderson at McGowan's ranch, Yolo county, committed suicide yesterday by shooting. He had been ill and was despondent.

The Young Men's Institute met at Santa Rosa last night and a public reception was tendered the delegates. The institute will formally open today.

Prospectors are rushing into the Coffee Creek diggings in Trinity county. Over forty arrived at Redding yesterday en route. Three hundred miners are expected to reach Redding to-day on their way to the new strike.

The Figel examination is still in progress at San Francisco. Mrs. Hoffman, widow of deceased, and the nurse girl who visited Hoffman's office on the evening of the shooting, testified yesterday. Other witnesses testified on minor points.

A terrible snow storm raged in South Dakota on Saturday. A heavy wind prevailed. Two inches of snow fell, damaging the grain fields and gardens. The Indians say they never have seen snow at this time of the year in the country before.

The Westminster Gazette endorses the editorial sentiment of the London Times on bimetalism and says it sees no prospect of the Indian mints being re-opened to the coinage of silver and says it is useless "to fool any longer with McKinley's commission."

The steamer Danube has arrived at Comax, B. C., with advices from Dyea up to August 10th, which give the news that the trail across the Chilcot pass is completely blocked. The British Columbian miners have organized and are building a new trail across White's pass.

Sixty men and boys employed at the Cutting Company's Cannery at Santa Rosa struck yesterday morning. The cause of the strike, it is claimed, is on account of the fact that this cannery pays a lower rate of wages than any other cannery and the men wanted an increase.

As a result of the decline in the price of silver the Lamertine Mining Company of Idaho Springs, Col., has discharged its men working on the silver lodes and will simply work the gold producing veins of the mine. It is one of the largest silver producers of the West.

Robbers attempted to hold up Santa Fe train No. 405 near Edmund, O. T., on Monday night. The robbers tried to force the express messenger to open the safe, but he succeeded in convincing them that he could not do it. They then tried to blow the safe up with dynamite, but failed. The robbers then withdrew and held a consultation and told the engineer to pull out. They did not enter the passenger cars.

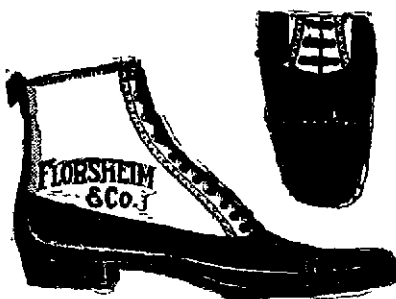

There is little variation in the strike situation. Both sides are working for supremacy and from time to time one gains a slight victory and then the other. In some districts the strikers were successful yesterday while in others they lost points. It is a bitter fight, but as yet there has been little disorder or trouble. It is now believed that next Monday will bring a complete tie up, but this belief has prevailed before and the hour named for a tie up, but the program failed. The late hopes may result the same.

The great Utica mine at Angels Camp is on fire. The fire was discovered yesterday morning at 4 o'clock. The shift at work had a narrow escape from death. Six men were cut off, but made their escape through the new shaft. The fire is supposed to have originated from spontaneous combustion caused by lard and coal oil. The loss, it is believed, will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. There are 1,000 men employed in the mine and if the fire proves as serious as anticipated these men will nearly all be left destitute. The town of Angels will be seriously effected. The mine is being flooded, but it will take four days to complete the work. A similar fire occurred in July, 1895, and the mine was flooded and it took seven weeks to pump the water out. The mine is owned by the Hobart estate.

NEW AND NOVEL

A new toy to amuse the children consists of a small balloon hung on a rod attached to the ceiling over a stove or lamp, the balloon rising as it becomes full of hot air and descending as the air cools, to be filled again and return to the ceiling.

For use in holding a screw in position while it is started into the wood or metal a wire loop having a circle of wire at the end to hold the head of the screw is slipped onto the shank of the screw driver, thus bringing the head of the screw in position.

Burglar alarms are being manufactured for use on bicycles, the device consisting of a bell surrounding a clock mechanism attached to the frame, with a lever projecting in line with the spokes in the back wheel to spring the alarm when the wheel is moved.

To permit shower baths being taken in an ordinary bathtub without splashing the walls or floor a metallic hood is attached to the tub, with a tube leading from the water pipe to a perforated dome in the top of the hood to shower the bather as he sits under it.

To prevent the freezing of water pipes in cold weather where the flow of water is continuous a small motor is operated by the water pressure to compress warm air, which is forced into the pipe at regular intervals to form globules and warm the pipe as they pass through.

GUARDING QUEEN VICTORIA.

Extraordinary Precautions Taken to Protect Her and Royal Guests.

The public may never know all the details of the arrangements of the British political police for safeguarding the queen and some of her royal visitors against criminals and cranks on Jubilee day. They were on a prodigious scale and included the use of police agents from every capital in Europe. Inspector Melville was in charge and he admits that he never worked harder nor had a more anxious time.

British revolutionists had been boasting and threatening all sorts of things. Rumors of dynamite preparations had been current for a couple of months. The impression prevailed that the explosion by which a train on the underground railroad was wrecked, a month ago, was a rehearsal for the jubilee plot. There are grounds for believing that something of the kind was contemplated, but the plan was abandoned because men were not found with the courage to take the risks involved.

Then it was decided to flood the line of the procession with revolutionary literature. This wild scheme was given up because there were no funds to do business upon a flooding scale, and comrades in the printing business were so lost to a proper sense of duty as to require payment in advance.

As far as the police are able to ascertain, only one man ventured to distribute leaflets. He had only just started when he was grabbed and hustled to Scotland Yard. He had several hundred leaflets poorly printed. On one side was a jubilee hymn in glorification of rebellion. On the other side was a proclamation signed: "London Revolutionists." It unpolitely speaks of the queen as a "fat old woman, evidently destined by nature for a wash-tub, but elevated by fortune to a throne." It then proceeds to say nasty things about her majesty's guests and visitors.—N. Y. Sun.

Robert Laing, of Sugar Grove, Pa., was striving to catch one of his pigs which he was intending to butcher, when the animal bit him on the thumb. Blood poisoning resulted, and at last accounts it was feared that he would lose his arm.

Waterville, Me., has a very absent-minded resident. He drove to a lodge meeting, blanketed and hitched his horse at the curb, and at the close of the meeting walked home, passing his horse, which stood at the hitching post all night.

Cold biscuits were served for breakfast by a wife in Somerset, Me., and the husband became so abusive that she had him arrested. The police justice acquitted him on the ground that the husband had had sufficient cause for his display of temper.

SENATOR JONES ON THE TARIFF.

He Writes a Letter to a Friend Giving a Few Explanatory Remarks Upon Some of Its Most Important Points.

From a letter received from Hon. John P. Jones, Washington, D. C., we make the following extracts relative to his action and ideas on the new tariff:

Being a protectionist from principle, I could do no otherwise than vote for a protective tariff, especially one that, in my judgment, comes nearer to a fair division of the protective advantages among all industries than any bill we have ever had.

The sugar schedule alone which, in the blindness of ignorance and prejudice, has been so much criticized and condemned, will, in my judgment, be the means of setting in motion a revolution in agriculture, in manufactures and in foreign commerce.

It must, sooner or later, result in the establishment upon our own soil of the great beet sugar industry, the full development of which, in field and factory, will not only help the farmer and the factory operative, but will help all the people, for it will keep at home, and in circulation among ourselves the enormous sum, $100,000,000 and more, which now go abroad in the purchase of sugar.

There is no more need of buying our sugars in foreign countries than there is of our buying atmospheric air in those countries. If we adhere to the policy of protecting the sugar industry, we shall, in twelve or fifteen years, be able to supply every pound of sugar called for by our own people; and this great work will involve the establishment of hundreds of great factories, giving employment altogether to hundreds of thousands of men.

Of course the fact that the country will not have a sufficient volume of money with which to do business, is going to handicap the tariff bill seriously. Without an increasing quantity of money, this country cannot expect prosperity. The best tariff ever devised could not overcome the evils caused by an insufficient quantity of money.

If this were the only country in the world, we would have to do all our own work, which would be equivalent to what is now known as a tariff of exclusion, yet our industries would be disorganized, and our working classes relegated to idleness, if the value of the dollar were permitted to rise. In all ages of the world's history the periods of the rising money unit have been periods of distress and desolation among the masses of the people.

In my judgment the rising value of the dollar will to a large extent nullify the advantages that would otherwise accrue to our people by reason of this tariff measure, which, as I have said, is, on the whole, a fair measure, because it makes an attempt to distribute the benefits of protection over a wider field than any other bill we have ever had.

An illustration of this is seen in the fact that for a great many years hides had been on the free list, while under the present bill they are dutiable, thus bringing within the scope of the protective policy the heretofore neglected cattle interest.

I hope to be over in Nevada shortly and to have the pleasure of seeing all my friends.

GAINING RECOGNITION.

Miss Kate Becker to Make Her Debut on the Operatic Stage.

The following clipping from the Boston, Mass., Beacon of August 7th will be of interest to the many friends of Miss Kate Becker in Reno.

"A letter received from Miss Kate Becker of this city, the well known contralto of amateur musical circles, states that she is still continuing the study of music in Saxony. In the winter Miss Becker will join an opera company now organizing in Berlin, and will make her debut in France, to be followed by engagements in England and Italy, returning to this country in the fall of 1898. Miss Becker is already assured by an American impresario of a lucrative engagement in an American company which is to be composed of musical artists drawn from France, England and Italy."

Reno Ready to Meet Her Part of the Contract.

The committee which has had the matter in hand of canvassing the town with a view of meeting the demand of Ellinghouse, Brady's agent, to put up a pavilion for the promised fistic carnival, has succeeded beyond all expectations and yesterday wired Alf Ellinghouse that Reno was ready to meet her part of the arrangement, if he was ready to signify. He is expected to arrive here within a few days, when the matter of location will be settled.

Just as soon as the preliminaries are agreed upon and the construction of the arena commenced, the stir in business incident to such events will manifest itself.

The Sisters' Convent and Hospital at Virginia to be Discontinued.

St. Mary's Convent School at Virginia has been closed on account of a lack of patronage. The Sisters have gone to other places that afford them a larger field for their work. It is quite probable that the Sisters Hospital will also be closed, although an effort is being made to continue it.

The Sisters of Mercy at Grass Valley have been requested to take charge of the hospital and they may be prevailed upon to keep it open. Both of these institutions have been of great value to the Comstock as well as the whole state and it is a pity that they should be abandoned.

A POINTER FOR DAIRYMEN.

A Process for Preserving Milk Pure.

Sweden, already famous for its dairy produce, has recently made a new departure in that line which promises to be an eye-opener to farmers of all nationalities. It is a process by which milk can be delivered, fresh and pure, thousands of miles distant from the farm or ranch which produced it.

The milk is subjected to pressure and a temperature of twenty degrees below zero and by this means frozen into a solid block. This block is then placed in a cask and the vacant space filled with milk that has been pasteurized and thoroughly sterilized by being heated to one hundred and twenty degrees Fahrenheit. The cask is almost completely filled so that there is little chance of the milk's being chained into butter by the motion of transportation. In this way the milk can be preserved for over three weeks, the block keeping it fresh and pure as it gradually melts away.

As Compared With California as a Gold Producer, Alaska is only an Ordinary Camp.

Much has been said about the wonderful yield of gold in Alaska. The report of an ex-official of that country gives the largest annual yield at $7,000,000, and yet people are growing wild and comparing Alaska to the palmy days of California as far as the gold harvest is concerned.

A glance at the following figures will show how excitement or enthusiasm can cause people to forget the past or even overlook what is going on right under their noses at the present time and when compared to the Alaskan figures make them seem insignificant and of small consideration.

In 1848, the year of discovery, California's placers yielded $5,000,000; in 1849, $23,000,000; in 1850, $50,000,000; in 1851, $55,000,000; in 1852, $60,000,000; in 1853, $65,000,000. In 1861 the placers still yielded $40,000,000. Between 1848 and 1896 California has added to the world's gold supply $1,283,115,604, or in forty eight years including 1896, an average of $26,731,575 per year, or nearly four times as much as Alaska's best annual record. The yield for 1896 was $17,000,000 and it was not a very good year for California either. Alaska may in time carry off the palm as a gold producer but it is not likely that she will do it for a year or two at least and by that time there will be a whole lot more known regarding the possibilities of the country, than is known now.

"The Robin Hood."

This popular cafe located on the corner of Stockton and O'Farrell streets, is not only well known in the city of San Francisco, but is becoming a rendezvous for Nevadans as well. It is central and a handy place to make appointments to fill engagements both for business and pleasure. M. L. Abbott, the genial proprietor, as well as his employees, make a point to accommodate visitors from the interior and give them directions and information regarding the city. The best of goods can always be found in stock and visitors may be assured of the most attentive and courteous treatment. Remember the place, the "Robin Hood," corner of Stockton and O'Farrell streets, San Francisco.

SNAKES PLAN A ROBBERY.

An Ingenious Arrangement by Which Bank Swallows Were to Be Caught.

A number of Baltimore naturalists had an unique experience the other day while on an ornithological excursion. They were searching for bank swallows in the neighborhood of Tolchester beach, about a mile from the pier where the excursion boats land.

The nests of bank swallows are built in holes in perpendicular banks, generally in colonies, dozens of holes being only a few inches apart. The bank the young men were exploring was about 30 feet in height, with the nests averaging seven feet from the top. The bank was almost perpendicular and the nests were reached by means of ladders constructed of trees.

One of the naturalists, after working for some time at one of the nests, felt his hand come in contact with some thing unusual. Drawing out his hand and looking into the hole he was surprised to find, coiled down at the bottom a huge blacksnake, which, after being gotten out and killed, proved to be nearly seven feet in length.

Afterward two other snakes, equally as long, were found in different holes. The surface of the bank was perfectly smooth, so the only possible way for the snakes to have reached the nests was to have let themselves down from some shot overhanging roots at the top of the bank.

The snakes seemed to have worked along the bank from nest to nest, as several nests were found in which were eggs that had been emptied of their contents. In a nest with one of the snakes was a bird which had been lately killed, and which the snake evidently was about to devour when its own end came.

The naturalists said they had been collecting eggs for many years, but had never before seen anything so like a well-planned attack of snakes upon birds' eggs.—Baltimore Sun.

MARRIED BY PROXY.

No Less Than Three Queens Have Thus Acquired Their Titles.

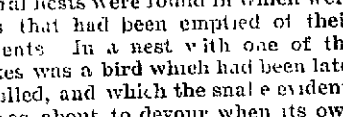

One of the queerest features of court life in Europe is the marriage by proxy of royal personages. There are at the present moment no less than three royal ladies who have been thus wedded—the queen regent of Spain, the dowager queen of Portugal and the ex-queen of Naples.

Kings and reigning sovereigns are held to be too important personages to be married anywhere else than in their own dominions. On the other hand, it is held to be infra dig for a spinster princess of the blood, who is about to blossom forth into a full-fledged queen or empress, to travel abroad in quest of a consort.

In order to meet this difficulty the royal or imperial bridegroom delegates one of the principal nobles of the realm, who goes through the religious and civil portion of the wedding ceremony in the capital of the bride's country on behalf of his master, making the responses for him and tendering his hand, as well as the ring, at the prescribed points of the ceremony. He then accompanies her to his master's dominions, acting as her chief escort.

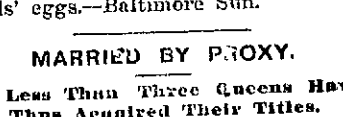

According to the ideas of the Roman Catholic church, a ceremony of this kind is sufficiently binding upon the bride and upon the royal bridegroom to render any further ceremony, ecclesiastical or civil, superfluous, and when any additional religious function takes place it usually assumes the form of a "Te Deum" and a solemn benediction, attended by both husband and wife immediately on the arrival of the latter in the capital of her adopted country.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Crockery, glassware, tinware and agateware lower than ever at Lange & Schmitt's.

Good Substantial Crockery costs a little more than the unreliable sort, but many times the satisfaction and double the service ought to make it worth twice as much. Buying your crockery here will give you this additional service and satisfaction at a very slight advance over the cost of inferior ware.
